01

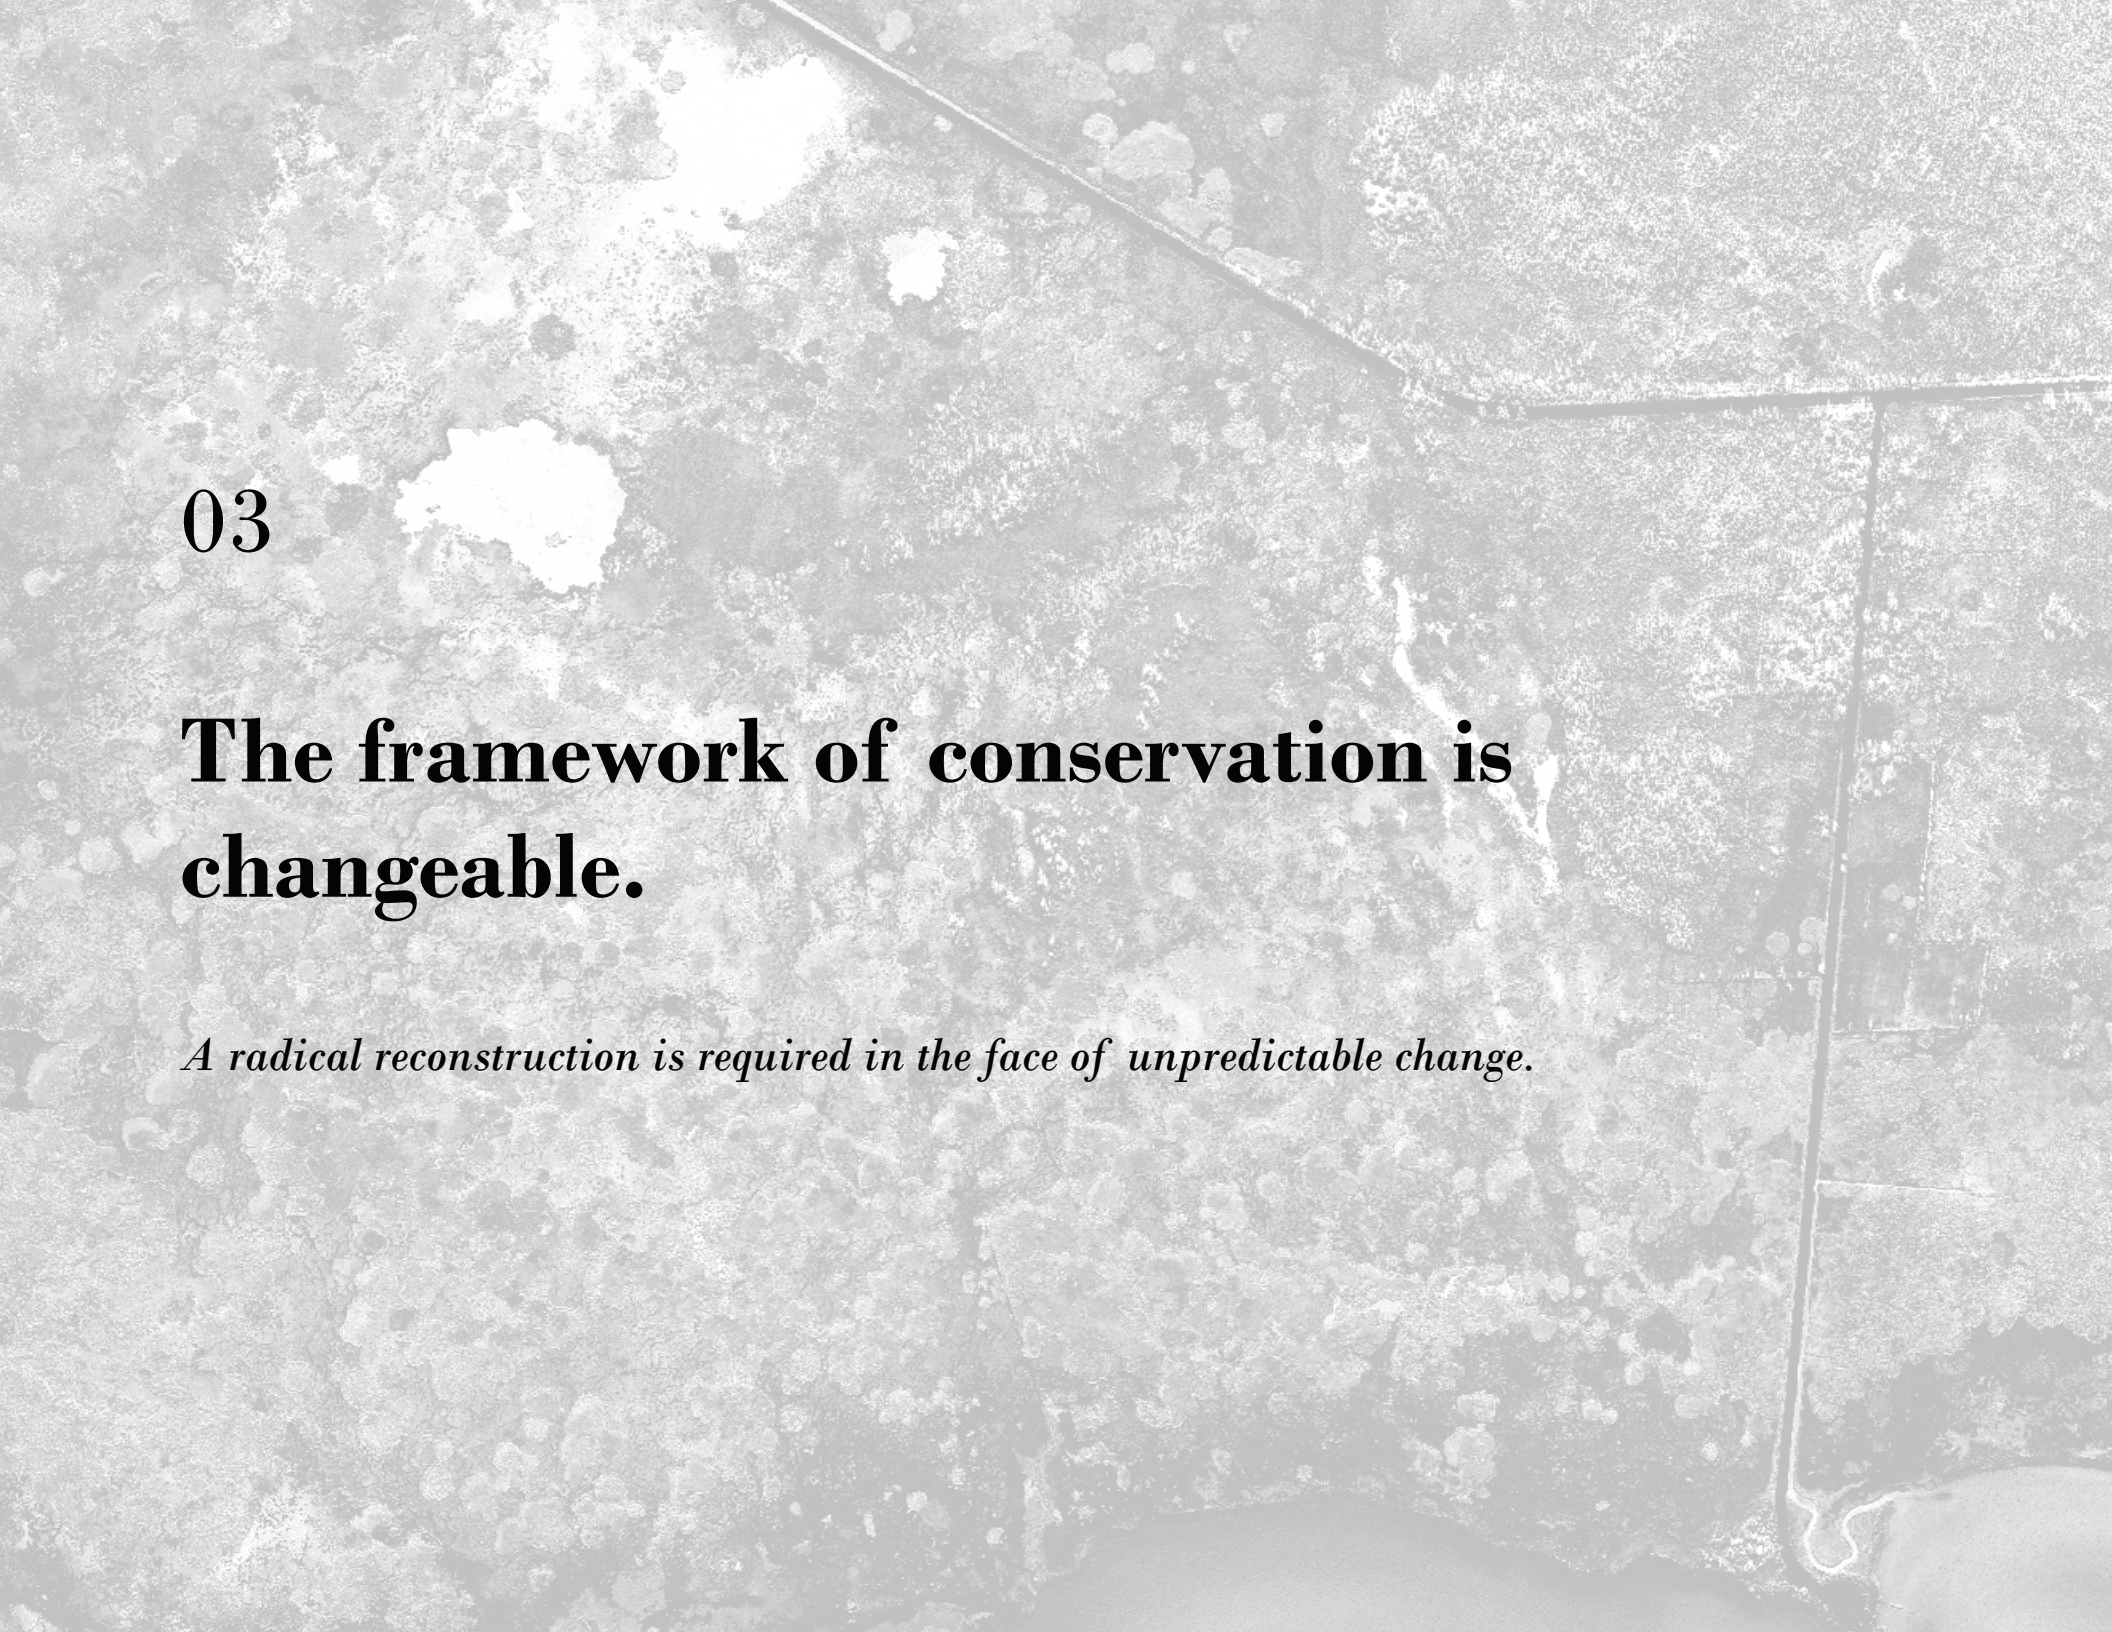

Water dictates past, present, and future landscapes.

Change is inevitable - experiment, learn, and embrace it.

02

Landscape Architecture is in a unique position to embrace the entropy of living systems.

Embrace dynamic energy and direct it towards optimistic change.

03

The framework of conservation is changeable.

A radical reconstruction is required in the face of unpredictable change.

04

The loss of one thing is the gain of another.

Matter is neither created nor destroyed - it is a continuum.
